

Dedication Marks Opening of Gym

By GREGORY J. WILCOX
Feature Editor

After a construction delay caused by bad weather, several strikes, and two postponed openings, the new Women's Gym was finally dedicated Tuesday.

The weather responsible for the construction delay was present again, but it didn't dampen the dedication festivities.

Mrs. Marian La Follette, the only woman member of the Board of Trustees, cut the white paper ribbon signifying the official opening of the facility. Assisting her were Board President Frederic Wyatt, Dr. Leslie Koltai, chancellor of the Community College District, and Dr. Robert Horton, Valley college president.

Large Area

The 36,000 square foot facility includes a body building room, exercise room, equipment area, lockers, and showers, in addition to the main gym.

The administrative section is air conditioned and features seven offices, a conference room, first aid room, Physical Education majors room, work room and buffet room with dressing quarters for the staff.

Although it will be officially known as the Women's Gym, men students will be able to use the facility for coed sports. Community Services will also be able to schedule events in the new plant, as well as use the old wooden structure across the street.

Band Entertains

The Valley College Studio Jazz Band, directed by Richard Carlson, provided entertainment. Dr. Koltai gave the keynote speech and Wyatt accepted the building for the Board of Trustees.

"The community colleges place emphasis on all aspects of the educational process," Dr. Koltai said, "but this building is not the end in itself, but just a prelude as to what lies ahead."

Dr. Koltai termed the gym "marvelous" and indicated that the board and the district are contemplating new challenges in the future, including the addition of five new academic majors to the college curriculum.

Wyatt Pleased

Wyatt said he was very pleased with the completion of the gym and said the facility was "vital" in order to achieve the benefits of a well balanced community college.

The board president took a firm stand on physical education requirements for graduation and said he would continue to push for a swimming pool for Valley.

Attractive Building

Dr. Horton said the attractiveness of the building "exceeded all expectations" and predicted that the presence of the gym would initiate extension of the women's physical education program on Valley's campus.

Mrs. La Follette said the completion of the gym was a turning point for women's athletics and that it signified the recognition of equality between men's and women's athletics.

"Happiness is . . . the completion of this physical education building," she said, "it is probably the only purple gym in the world."

A.S. Awards to 20 Students

Scholarships Given

Twenty Valley College students have been awarded A.S. Scholarships. The amount of the scholarships ranged from $50 to $250, but individual amounts were not disclosed by the financial aids office.

Winners of the scholarships are Debra Kreda, Bonnie Caruso, Eric Thompson, Pat May, Sharon Stevens, Lewis Snow, Alice Miller, Donna Hewell, Ellen Cheung, Madeline Bonn, Mitchell Harmatz, Ronald Rhoades, Alexandra Sauer, David Gomborg, Donna Forman, Patricia Kubiak, Thomas King, Robert Grogan, Sabith Kent, and Tracy Carlis.

Applicants for the stipends were reviewed by a committee headed by Valerie Little, commissioner of scholastic activities, then screened by a faculty committee.

Past semester recipients were evaluated as to financial need, as well as campus activity and scholastic achievement. But this semester, financial need was not made a condition for an award. Applicants grade point average and involvement in campus activities were the criteria on which they were judged for the awards.

JOHN BECKER
New Head Coach

John Becker Takes Over VC Football

By WES PRESTON
Staff Writer

George Goff, athletic director, announced Wednesday that John Becker, an assistant coach at the University of New Mexico the last two years, has been named the new head football coach at Valley College.

Becker fills the post that was vacated by Ed Sowash, who resigned at the end of the past season after the Monarchs slumped to a 1-8 record.

Impressive Credentials

The 30-year-old coach brings with him impressive credentials. His coaching record at Crespi High was an outstanding 38-11-1, and in 1970 he mentored an undefeated UCLA freshmen team that was led by James McAllister and Kermit Johnson.

To satisfy student demand, additional sections of the Cooperative Education class will be offered during the spring semester. Added sections are in biology-chemistry, business, and secretarial science.

Volunteers Needed

The Valley College Volunteer Bureau has announced opportunities for students to become involved in volunteer jobs.

The State Department of Human Resources and Development in Van Nuys needs volunteers to participate in the employment for a disabled pilot project.

Loss 'Bumps' Grabowski

Ex-District Director To Run Cafeteria

By LEW S. SNOW
Staff Writer

James Loss, former director of food services for the Los Angeles Community College District (LACCD), has taken over the reigns of the Valley College cafeteria from Kay Grabowski, who was, in effect, "bumped" from her post.

As a former principal cafeteria manager, Loss had "bumping rights" when his job as a consultant to the now autonomous cafeteria system was eliminated Dec. 31. Since Mrs. Grabowski was "low man on the totem pole" in seniority, Loss took her job.

There is some question over that lack of seniority, however. Four years ago, when Mrs. Grabowski chose to remain at Valley as principal cafeteria manager, she lost 11,000 hours of seniority. The only other principal manager, Elsie Knott of Los Angeles City College, has 11,000 hours of seniority over Mrs. Grabowski.

Previous to his post with the district, Loss was principal cafeteria manager at LACC for 11 years. This fall, he served temporary duty at Pierce's cafeteria when its manager, Virginia Toberg, took a job with the Los Angeles Unified School District. Mrs. Grabowski is now senior manager at Pierce, a lesser position that pays $140 less per month.

Although stating some displeasure at being bumped from her post, Mrs. Grabowski said, "I was glad to have stayed at Valley and proved what I could do." Under her direction this fall, the cafeteria ran "in the black" for the first time in over three years.

"I was first notified that his (Loss) consulting job would last until June," said Mrs. Grabowski. "When I saw everyone over the vacation, I told them I would see them next year (1974). Then, Dec. 31 (while she was in the hospital) I was given my 30-day notice."

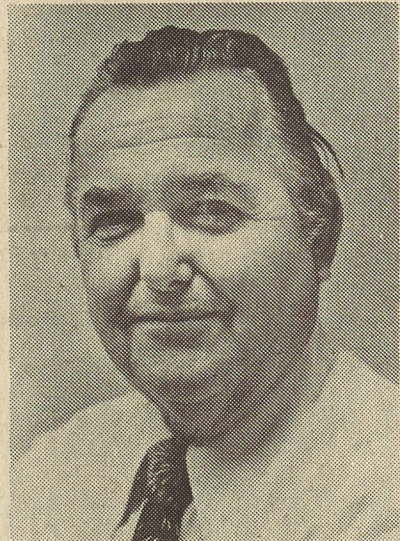

"Kay did a good job in purchasing and bargaining," said Donald Brunet, dean of educational services and administrator in charge of cafeteria operations. "She kept our prices pretty stable."

Almost all of the seven district cafeterias have been running in the black since autonomy was given last year, with the exception of Southwest and West Los Angeles colleges.

"Valley is in very good shape," said Brunet. He said that student help and feedback helped mold the cafeteria to their needs, resulting in profitable operations.

Except for increased food costs, Brunet does not foresee any price increases in the coming semester. If costs do go up, however, some adjustments may have to be made.

The cafeteria controversy came to a head in the Fall of 1972, when Star uncovered an average 23 percent increase in cafeteria items. In November of that year, prices were rolled back, and last spring the Board of Trustees voted to let the cafeterias operate on their own.

Council Looks Back To Evaluate Work

Wrapping up a semester of A.S. Council activities, individual council members presented brief reports of their achievements since September at their last meeting Tuesday. A summation of council's accomplishments and yet-to-be-realized ideals highlighted this semester's last Executive Council meeting.

An increase in paid ID sales from 54.1 percent to 60 percent, the district rescinding of the cigarette ban, and the establishment of a council seat for a Commissioner of Jewish Ethnic Studies were among major council achievements reviewed.

Bobby Seale's speaking appearance on campus this semester was called a "landmark."

The allocation of $90,220 toward Valley's future recreation room was noted as the largest amount of funds allotted by council all semester.

Other enterprises hailed as successful by council members included the establishment of a babysitting exchange service to be implemented next semester, a workable system of teacher evaluation, and alumni homecoming game activities.

A.S. President Jo Anne Orijel said that the council members' idealism helped them to accomplish much of what they set out to. "Everyone did a great deal of work," she said.

Some of the council's goals that have yet to materialize were brought out at the meeting. They include more campus facilities which will meet the needs handicapped students and the long-awaited child care center.

Forensic Team Hosts Tourney

Valley's speech team will host the Los Angeles Valley College championships this weekend.

"We are expecting 30 to 40 schools to participate in this tournament," said Coach Jack Sterk. "So far we have confirmations from colleges as far away as Kansas and the College of Southern Idaho."

All the community colleges from the district and from Northern California were invited to participate. Sterk also said that this is one of the top three junior college tournaments held this year.

The finals will be held on Saturday night from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and the awards will be presented in Monarch Hall at 8:30 p.m.

The speech team urges any interested students to come and view the tournament.

Nixon's Impeachment Sought

Congressman James Corman (D-22nd district) has called for the impeachment of President Nixon on grounds that he violated executive powers granted him by the Constitution. Corman made his plea for impeachment during an impeachment rally last week in the cafeteria.

Corman explained that Mr. Nixon abused executive powers on two grounds.

"President Nixon committed an impeachable offense by attending meetings for the purpose of organizing the plumbers," said Corman. "In addition, he frustrated efforts by law enforcement agencies to get at the truth regarding Watergate."

Possible Impeachment

Currently, Congress is divided into three groups regarding possible impeachment, Corman said. The three groups are congressmen believing Mr. Nixon innocent, congressmen who are undecided, and congressmen believing Mr. Nixon should be impeached.

However, some congressmen in the third group cautioned that impeachment of Mr. Nixon would be a blow to national stability, Corman said.

After speaking for 15 minutes, Corman answered questions from the audience. Several people asked why the judiciary committee has been slow in investigating possibilities for impeachment. Corman replied that the investigation was interrupted because the committee had to approve Gerald Ford's nomination for vice-president.

However, Corman emphasized that the committee is now working full time on the matter, and a vote on impeachment may reach the Senate floor sometime during May or June.

Personal Views

During the question and answer session, many people expressed their personal view regarding impeachment. Generally, they stated that any senator or congressman who does not vote for impeachment should be voted out of office.

After Corman left the rally, Martin Shacter, president of the local chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), spoke and echoed Corman's feelings regarding impeachment. In addition, Shacter stated that the ACLU supported a resolution for impeachment because they thought that Mr. Nixon's abuse of executive power can lead to a dictatorship.

The next meeting of the San Fernando Valley Impeachment Committee will be tonight at 8 at 5535 Calhoun Ave., Van Nuys. Anyone desiring information regarding the meeting should call 782-4593.

In addition, a mass rally for impeachment will be held on Sunday, Jan. 20, at Fairfax High School on Melrose and Fairfax avenues in Los Angeles. The rally will begin at 2 p.m. For further information, call 473-2350.

Wyatt Begins Term At Gym Dedication

By RANDY VENERLOH
Copy Editor

Frederic A. Wyatt, who was elected president of the Los Angeles Community College Board of Trustees on Dec. 19 following the unexpected resignation of Dr. Monroe F. Richman, has a lengthy distinguished career leading up to his selection as president.

Wyatt graduated from Union College in New York and later served that school in many positions. At various times he was director of admissions at Union, director of placement, and manager of alumni relations. In addition to his degree from Union College, Wyatt was also a student at Harvard University and New York University.

Service Record

After college, Wyatt served for four years during World War II as an active-duty naval aviator, then he was recalled during the Korean War to direct recruitment efforts throughout the Midwest. He worked with the Defense Department for approximately 10 years as a retirement counselor and received commendation from the Secretary of the Navy and from the Department of the Air Force.

Numerous Activities

Wyatt has also been active in the business world and the community. His affiliations include Association for Computing Machinery, Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, U.S. Lacrosse Coaches Association, TRY Foundation, and the Community Advisory Committee for the California Department of Human Resources Development. Wyatt serves as a regional president of the California Junior College Association.

The new president of the Board of Trustees has been a member of the LACCD board since it was created in 1969 to replace the Los Angeles City School District as the managing organization for the area's community colleges.

He officially became president on Jan. 1. His predecessor, Dr. Richman, will remain a member of the board although he has stepped down from the presidency post. Dr. Richman cited personal and professional demands on his time as his motive for resigning.

Gym Dedication

Wyatt appeared at last Tuesday's dedication of the new Women's Gymnasium. He repeated his conviction that physical education must remain a necessary requirement for graduation. He also said that he hoped the gym would enhance recreation in the community.

Wyatt and the board have sought to add a swimming pool to Valley's campus. Wyatt mentioned this Tuesday when he said, "I look forward to the day when we'll be dedicating a swimming pool here at Valley." He also added that he enjoys Valley College's facilities.

Wyatt's previous position as vice-president has been filled by Dr. Kenneth S. Washington.

CASTING THEIR BALLOTS this week in the A.S.O. elections are Valley College students with paid I.D.'s. Voting continues until 2 p.m. today. Results of the election will be announced on Friday.

New Occupational Program Joins Schedule of Classes

By JUDY KAPLAN
Staff Writer

A new occupational program and many new classes are being offered this spring.

The new program is a magazine-journalism sequence, which will consist of required courses, including Journalism 1 or 6, and Journalism 8, article writing. Three units of any journalism or photography elective and Journalism 20a, magazine editing, are also required.

Crown, Monarch, and possible Sceptre magazine are the publications put out by the department. In order to work on any of these publications, the student must be enrolled in Journalism 20c.

Department chairman Leo Garapedian said in a recent interview that thus far there is a program for newspaper-journalism and photo-journalism, but there has been no program for the student interested in working on a magazine.

Occupational Programs

"When the magazine-journalism student finishes this occupational program, he will be qualified to work on any magazine," said Garapedian. He also said that one of the purposes of the community college is to provide occupational programs in the interest of the students.

In the department for the first time, two classes in respiratory therapy will be offered. The classes, Respiratory Therapy 2 and 12, are part of the respiratory therapy occupational program.

Beginning Russian, which has not been offered for a few years, will again be offered this spring by the Language Department.

Medical assistant office procedures and a library resources class are two new classes for the coming spring semester. Library Science 2, taught by Annabelle Webster, will emphasize the use of the many sources of information in a library. This course will also include an opportunity to gain practical experience in the Valley College library.

The Humanities program has recently been expanded to four classes, one of which is Great Women, Great Eras, Humanities 8.

Architectural Drawing 5 and 6 are relatively new courses offered at Valley. Also included in the new curriculum are Economics 4, 5, and 15 which are economics for the consumer, economics for the citizen, and the economics of labor-management relations.

Mathematics 19, algebra review, and Mathematics 30, arithmetic for college students, are two new courses offered by the Math Department.

New Method

A new method of teaching is being experimented with in English 1 with Dr. Leslie Boston, and history of the Americas, History 5, with Samuel Mayo. These are two separate classes which are working together on similar material.

Science and society, History 54, will be team-taught by history and philosophy teachers for the first time at Valley College.

Three-way team-teaching will also be tried next semester in History 17 and 18.

New Spring Schedule Includes Instruction In Outdoor Survival, Wilderness Journey

By DALE FINK
News Editor

Imagine surviving amidst the rugged wilderness of the High Sierras, totally alone and possessing only knowledge of the environment to aid in surviving three long days.

It is man against the elements, and as the law of nature reads, "only the strong survive."

Or the educated. Man, being a part of nature, can blend and live harmoniously in the environment. But this ability is not instinctive. It must be learned.

An outdoor survival class will be taught this semester at Valley for students wanting to learn how to "pit themselves against the wilderness," as Gerald Bessey, assistant professor of biology, explains. The class is team-taught by Bessey and Richard

C. Weston, associate professor of biology at California State University at Northridge.

A two-day survival workshop and a nine-day survival expedition in the High Sierras at the end of the semester will provide students an opportunity to apply the skills and concepts learned in class to the survival experience. A three-day solo in the wilderness will conclude the expedition.

For these three days, each student will be alone and have to live off the land to procure food, water, and shelter.

Kind of Spooky

At Tapia, a student interested and experienced in outdoor recreation, went on a solo survival expedition last summer.

"Finding yourself totally alone in the mountains is kind of spooky. I'd never spent a night completely isolated from people. You start hearing some weird sounds," he said.

"It's beneficial to anyone to spend time in the mountains. You have a chance to put your skills to work. You can either just stay in one place or go on your own backpack trip."

"But just gathering foods you can eat will keep you busy," Tapia said. In the class, students learn how to identify and utilize 50 species of wild edible plant foods.

"Also taught in class are various ways to start a fire, how to purify water, how to trap, how to snare animal food, and how to keep warm without a sleeping bag," Bessey said.

Wilderness Skills

Primitive orientational and path-finding skills, useful for finding the way in the wilderness, are also taught. In short, "It's instruction in how to be a pioneer," Bessey said.

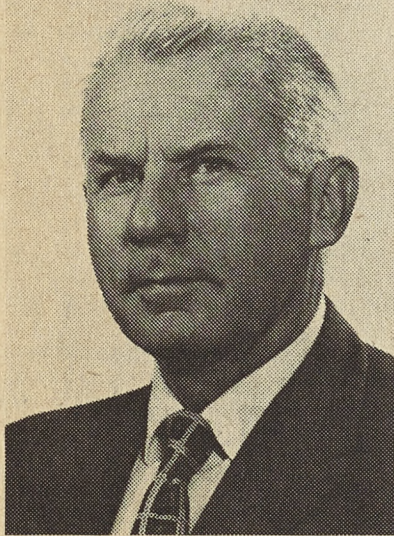

Bessey commented that past experience with the class has shown him that students develop "a special love of America's wilderness areas, and because of their new found skills and confidence, they carry little civilization polluting artifacts into the wilderness with them.

Tapia has started a Mountaineering Club at Valley which will have backpacking trips, ski touring, and lessons in rappelling (climbing rocks with the use of a rope).

"Being also active in the Mountaineering Club will enhance your appreciation of going on the survival expedition," Tapia said.

Anyone interested in the outdoor survival class and/or the Mountaineering Club should go to the club meeting in Life Science 107 today at 11 a.m. where Prof. Weston will be explaining and showing slides of a five-day High Sierra survival trip.

Community College Grant Expands Program for Vets

The Federal government recently awarded the Los Angeles Community College District $800,000 to be used for expanding the veterans' program on campus.

This grant is the direct result of an increased enrollment of veterans in the community colleges.

At Valley College, the veteran population numbers nearly 4,200 and includes approximately 80 women.

Valley's share of the money is already being used to enlarge the Veterans Office and to initiate new programs.

John Barnhart, veterans coordinator, explained an innovative course of instruction made possible by this new grant and being offered at the V.A. Hospital.

The course, entitled "Law for the California Layman," is conducted by TV video cassette which each enrolled veteran may play at his own convenience. An instructor is available at the hospital to answer questions one day each week.

Barnhart also said that the veteran population at Valley is "enormous compared with most schools," and that it has increased 10 percent over the past year.

Despite this enormity, Barnhart's office takes special pride in offering personalized service and counseling to anyone needing them.

Despite financial pressures, veterans perform better academically than other college students because they are more "conscientious," according to Barnhart.

"They realize what they have missed," Barnhart said. "They turn to business and pre-law studies because they know the facts of life and want to be able to get a job."

Petition Awaits Any Signatures In Vets Office

All students, especially those who are veterans, are asked to sign a petition in the Veterans Aid Office to raise income and other benefits for veterans who have served longer than others.

Currently, veterans receive the same amount of benefits regardless of how long they served, according to two veterans. The veterans, who declined to identify themselves by name, said that a person who served in the military for two years gets the same amount of income after discharge that one who served three or four years does. They said the petition in the Veterans Office will ask that income benefits be proportional to the length of service given by the veteran. They added that the petition may be signed at any time the office is open and that no identification is required.

With championship awards being few and far between for Valley athletic teams, the women's basketball team took the problem at hand. The final result: one championship and one runner-up.

The 20 points scored by Toni Crawford and Karen Southwick's 16 points paved the way for the B team as they soundly defeated El Camino, 58-43, for the 1973 championship.

The Monarch's B's, placing second to El Camino in Metro Conference play, defeated Fullerton in the first round for the right to meet El Camino.

Besides the scoring punch of Ms. Crawford and Ms. Southwick, the Monarchs picked up additional scoring from Nancy Wolf and Tia Caldwell. Ms. Caldwell supplied Valley with six defensive rebounds which were turned into points.

For Valley's varsity, it was almost the complete reversal. They were Metro Conference champs with a season record of 10-2 with Pierce the runner-up. The two teams met in the championship game with Pierce proving to be the stronger by defeating Valley 56-42.

For Pierce, Nancy Culliver had 25 points and almost single-handedly defeated the Monarchs. Valley's scoring was provided by Candy Fisher, shooting 42 percent from the field with 19 points. Charlotte Thomas and Zonia "Sister" Baldwin contributed 11 and 6 points, respectively.

"I'm very proud of both my teams this year," said Coach Mary Ann Breckell. "All year long they played like winners. It's really a delightful

When Coach Breckell was asked about next year's team she said, "We may be stronger than this year's team. With the return of Charlotte Thomas, Carol Piechocinski, Toni Crawford, Sandy Spare, Kathy Mejia, and the incoming high school seniors, we will be tough to beat."

Wrestlers Hosting El Camino Tonight

By ED KASPER
Staff Writer

Though they were snowed-away from the Fresno Invitational Tournament, they'll be no stopping Coach Bernie Christian's Monarch wrestling team this evening when they open their Metropolitan Conference campaign by hosting the El Camino Warriors.

First match begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Men's Gym.

Christian said that he was a bit disappointed that his squad was unable to compete in the Fresno meet last weekend, but voiced enthusiasm over tonight's conference opener.

"They're a pretty tough club," he said. "They were weak at the beginning of the year, but I think they'll be pretty rough when they face us."

The Monarchs won't be at full strength tonight. Team captain Tim Swaha, the squads top 134 pound division performer, will be out of action for approximately two weeks due to cracked ribs suffered in the Santa Monica Tournament last month. Another 134 pound star, Martin Nunez, has left the team and dropped out of school due to personal reasons. His 6-2 record was one of the best on the team.

The Monarchs will travel to East Los Angeles College on Tuesday for a 7:30 p.m. match and then will return to the home arena next Friday night and host Pierce.

Monarch Cagers Continue Metro Action vs. El Camino

By KENT WHITESEL
Staff Writer

Moving into Metropolitan Conference action, the Monarch basketball team entertains El Camino tomorrow evening at 8 p.m. in the Men's Gymnasium.

El Camino sports an 8-9 mark going into the contest, with their best basketball of the year coming in the Desert Classic.

The Warriors are led by 6-6 center Rusty Smith and 6-4 forward Mike Owen. Virginia transfer Ralph Davis figures highly in the Warriors hopes of improving on last year's runner-up position.

Coach Gaston Green's cagers will be out to snap a years victory drought in Metro action. The Monarchs sport two of the most outstanding shooters in the junior college ranks in Alan Green and Mike Holman.

Green and Holman, along with Rick Garcia and Rick Brown, have carried the blunt of Valley's scoring punch this season.

To be competitive in Metro play, the Monarchs must keep out of foul trouble and have a little offensive patience.

Metro Rundown

Bakersfield — The Renegades were the most successful team in pre-season with a 14-2 mark. Highlighting the Bakersfield attack have been freshmen Jeff Kerl (6-6), Wayne Smith (6-4), and Milt Henderson (6-2).

Long Beach — If experience, depth, speed, and height mean anything, the Vikings have to be rated to win the championship. Veteran forward Dan Frost (6-6½) ranks as one of the premiere players in the league. Joining Frost on the front line is center Dave Hillman (6-5), Bill Cantwell (6-6), and Steve Sincoc (6-8). Guard Cal Wulfsberg (6-3) has been an outstanding playmaker and assist man.

Pasadena — Not one letterman returns to the Lancers. Pasadena suffered a 10-game losing streak during the pre-season and enter league play as the likely cellar dweller.

Pierce—All-Metro guard Jon Chance leads the Brahma assault for the league title. Chance, a high school teammate of Valley's Mike Holman, is perhaps the best back court man in the state. Inside, Pierce hits the boards with returnees Dan Gossen (6-3), Joe Droege (6-6), and newcomer Sherman Stakely (6-5).

Valley 82, Long Beach 106

The Monarchs were no match for the top-ranked Vikings as they suffered their 12th defeat of the season against just five wins.

Some fine under-the-basket shooting by 6-5 Viking center Dave Hillman early in the game helped propel the visitors to a comfortable lead they never relinquished. All-Metro forward Dan Frost was the top performer of the evening, hitting on 10 of 14 shots from the field and 3 of 4 from the line to finish the game with 23 points, high for the night.

Valley 76, Santa Ana 86

Plagued by 31 personal fouls, Valley fell to Santa Ana Saturday night, 86-76, in the Monarchs final non-conference outing.

Sharpshooting forward Holman kept Valley within striking distance on his way to a 20-point performance before fouling out in the final minutes.

The Monarchs outshot Santa Ana from the floor 33-29 with Brown, Green, Garcia, and Holman providing the offensive thrust. Valley trailed by only one with four minutes left, but foul trouble and cold free throw shooting offset a fine team effort.

One of the main reasons Goff leaned toward Becker was the precocity the youthful coach has shown since he prepped at nearby Notre Dame High School where he starred in football and baseball.

Becker, who received both his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Cal State University, Northridge, knows the task ahead of him is not an easy one.

To Becker, who admits he loves challenges, it is just another mountain to climb and to conquer. "I'm well aware of Valley's record in football in recent years, but I'm also aware of the talent that is produced in Valley-area high schools," says Becker. "With good recruiting and a lot of hard work, there is no reason why Valley cannot have a winning football team."

Becker believes his toughest obstacle is to overcome the losing image the school has, and to convince returnees and prospective athletes that they can play on a winning football team.

Sunkist Track Meet Hosts VC Spikers Jan. 19

Saturday night, Jan. 19, Valley's mile relay team will take part in the annual Sunkist Indoor Track Meet at the L.A. Sports Arena.

Competing for the Monarchs will be sophomore Derek Lawson and freshman Jeff Leeds.

"I am not sure yet who will fill the other two spots," said Coach Nick Giovinazzo. "It will either be Kevin Carroll, Bret Napoli, both sophomores, or Greg Groves a freshman from Monroe."

The Sunkist meet is the first indoor meet of the season and it combines high school, college, and international athletes. Some of the top names will be Dave Wottle, Randy Williams, Steve Prefontaine, and Emil Puttermans.

Trio of Varied Concerts To Air

The first of three programs presented by the Music Department will begin in Monarch Hall this morning at 11 with Valley College student artists.

The second performance will be the Studio Jazz Band and the Dance Band in Monarch Hall at 8 p.m.

Finally, the Valley College Symphony Orchestra will perform in Monarch Hall Friday, Jan. 11, at 8 p.m.

Art Students Ready Work For Displays

Valley College art students will exhibit their works during two free public showings this month in the city of San Fernando.

The first exhibit will end today in the multipurpose room of San Fernando High School, 11133 O'Melveny Ave. The room will be open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Because the art works will be transported in an open truck, this exhibit may be canceled if there is rain on the morning of Jan. 9, said Dale Fulkerson, instructor in art.

The second exhibit will take place in the upstairs Directors' Room of the Camino Real Federal Savings and Loan Association, 400 San Fernando Mission Rd., Jan. 14 through 18, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Students will present works from each of the Art Department's divisions: painting—Shirley Ickes, Michael Damm; drawing—Lynn Harris; advertising—Karl Johnson, Robert Myers, Paul Wagner; design—Darlene Curtis, Jim Milton, Camille Shapero, Carla Campbell; and three-dimensional design—Bob Norris, Carol Langston, Gary Burris, and Gail Nitta.

Also, Fulkerson said, price tags will be placed on the art works, but sale won't be the primary concern. "We hope to involve students and community members not usually interested in this sort of activity."

The showings have been organized by Don Love, coordinator of the Outreach Program.

The Student Artist performance will include the winning entries submitted to the Original Composition Workshop: "Prelude and Fugue from Baroque Suite," by Steven Rose; "When that Aprille with His Shoures Soote," a song by Robert Young; and "Psalm 123," a choral piece written and conducted by Reggie Keith.

Solo performances include a harpsichord solo, trombone duet, soprano solo, piano solo, and a snare drum/rudimental bass drum percussion duet.

The Studio Jazz and Dance Bands presentation tonight will involve both the "A" band under the direction of Richard Carlson, associate professor of music, and the "B" band, directed by Don Nelligan, instructor in music.

The Symphony Orchestra, appearing tomorrow night, will play the overture to "The Thieving Magpie" by Rossini; a set of dances titled "Bach Suite" for strings, three trumpets, and two oboes; and the "Gayne Ballet Suite" by Aram Khachaturian.

Theodore Lynn, assistant professor of music, directs the orchestra.

CONDUCTING THE A CAPPELLA CHOIR during its enthralling recital of seven movements from Weber's "Mass in G Major" is Richard Knox, director. The melodious sounds produced by the Choir were enhanced by the San Fernando Valley Youth Chamber Orchestra, directed by Dr. Thomas Osborn. In last Sunday's concert in Monarch Hall, the LAVC A Cappella Choir, Chamber Chorale, and Mixed Chorus presented their own musical interpretation of the Greek tragedy, "Medea of Euripides." Their performance confirmed the validity of their outstanding reputation.

Nostalgia of Thirties Era

Cons Stung by Cons in 'Sting'

By ROCHELLE MENDE
Staff Writer

The talented trio of Paul Newman, Robert Redford, and Director George Roy Hill triumphantly team again to treat theatergoers to fast-paced comedy. Their new movie, "The Sting," can only be described in glowing superlatives.

Newman and Redford play a pair of lovable crooks, as they did in "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." However, the setting has changed from the Old West to the appealing nostalgia of the thirties era.

Beginning with Redford and his partner, Robert Earl Jones, two small-time con men, the plot artfully unfolds in chapters.

Desire for Revenge

The pair unwittingly cross Robert Shaw, a big time New York racket boss. In typical mob style, Shaw has Jones eliminated. Redford escapes with a deep desire for revenge that leads him to Newman, renowned as a master con man.

Together they plan and execute the "big con" to take Shaw. One great highlight of the film is a poker game between Newman and Shaw while Shaw is being "set-up." Newman delights the audience while amusingly out-cheating the cheat.

The stars are supported by some of the best character portrayals on the screen. Eileen Brennan adds many bright spots as a sharp madam and as Newman's girlfriend.

Steals Scenes

Charles Dierkop steals several scenes as Shaw's bodyguard, whose personal insecurities appear evident in many encounters with Redford.

Charles Durning, a persistent cop; Ray Walston, an assistant to the con men; and Dimitra Arliss, an unsmiling waitress, all add pleasant touches.

The title, "The Sting," is a slang term for the final point in the con when the money is taken. From the very beginning to the sting, this film is full of surprises, suspense, and an abundance of comedy.

Top Quality, Balance
Well-written dialogue is equally well handled by the superb cast. The music is carefully used to enhance the film, and in one excellent sequence, is used in place of dialogue.

Thoughtful Depiction

Set design and costumes also thoughtfully depict the era and set the mood.

All aspects of film production in "The Sting" are of top quality and are balanced to perfection. It has already been acclaimed "The Best Picture of 1973" by the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures.

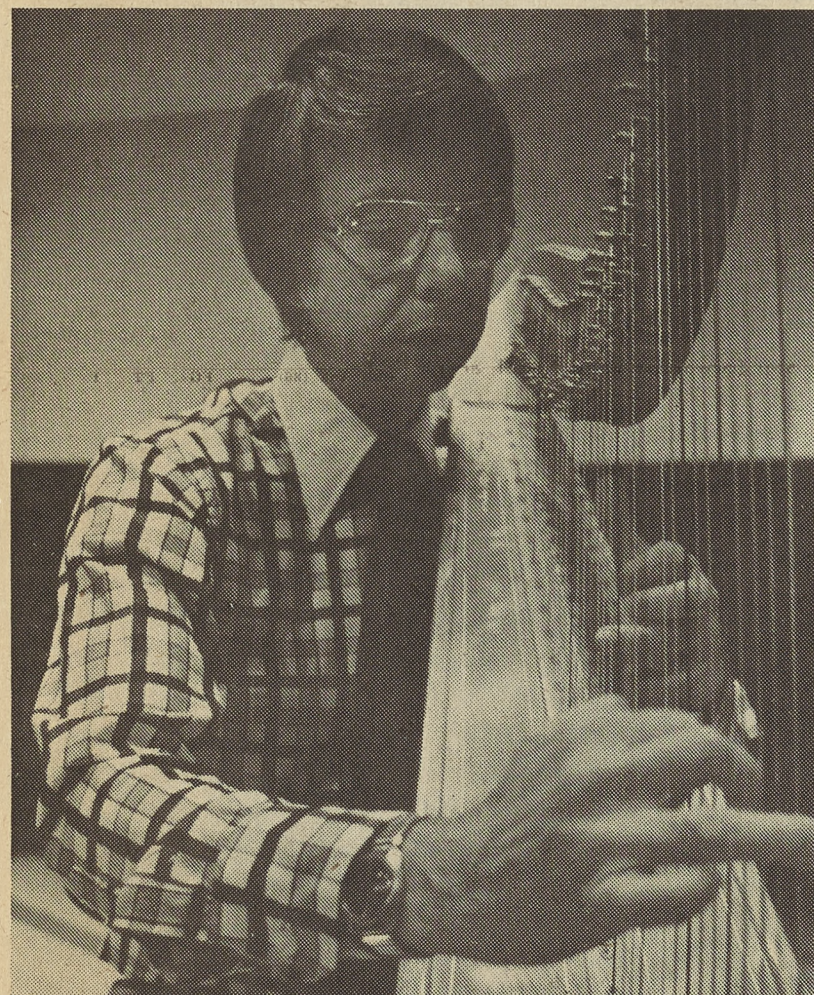

"The Sting" fulfills every promise it makes to its audience, and more.

WAC Noncom Bugs Middle-Aged Draftee In One-Act Comedy

"Next," a one-act play directed by Bonnie Bernstein, theatre arts major, will be performed free of charge in TA101 today at 11 a.m. and at 8 p.m.

The Terrence McNally play is "a farcical, deeply moving story about a reluctant, middle-aged draftee and his encounters with his physical examination officer, a tough Women's Army Corps sergeant," said Miss Bernstein.

Tom Dorsey will play the part of the draftee, and Barbara Branson will play the part of the WAC sergeant.

DEWAYNE FULTON, MUSICIAN since the age of 15, encores on the electric harp with his own arrangement of the Spanish guitar classic, "Malaguena," during last Thursday's Campus Concert.

Chorale Harmonizes With Stylistic Unity

By JANET SVENDSEN
Managing Editor

There are few pastimes so pleasant as watching and listening to a beautifully harmonious blending of voices joined in song. The auditory sense is more fully appreciated during experiences of this sort.

A chance to enjoy these harmonies occurred last Sunday night when the Los Angeles Valley College A Cappella Choir, Chamber Chorale, and Mixed Chorus performed with the same stylistic unity that merited the showers of European critics' compliments the Chorale received during its participation in the Europa Cantat V Festival in France last summer.

'Medea of Euripides'

Under the direction of Richard Knox, professor of music, the combined vocal groups performed their own version of the Greek tragedy, "Medea of Euripides." It included use of narration, dramatically delivered character monologues, and effective accentuation with drum, triangle, and xylophone.

The presentation came off as thoroughly impressive, perhaps as a result of its startling simplicity.

Earlier in the Monarch Hall program, the A Cappella Choir, accompanied by the San Fernando Valley Youth Chamber Orchestra, performed seven movements of Carl Maria Von Weber's "Mass in G Major." Five very talented soloists took part.

A more whimsical piece was "The Seasons" from "Song of Sadness and Gladness" by Jean Berger, involving rapid repetitions of lines as "Snowy, flowy, blowy," and "Breezy, freezy, sneezy." A loud "Hut-choo!" at the song's conclusion brought expressions of delight from the audience.

Other Highlights

Other highlights of the concert performed by the combined choral groups, were Zoltan Kodaly's "We Are the Music Makers," which incorporated a germane text by Arthur William Edgar O'Shaughnessy, and a rousing spiritual, "Ain't Got Time to Die," led with exceptional forte by tenor Arthur Broadus.

The concert's success was reflected in the lengthy ovation the audience gave the vocalists at the program's conclusion.

A.S. Candidates Address IOC

Candidates running in this week's Associated Students general election, which ends today, had a chance to make a two-minute statement at last Thursday's Inter-Organization Council meeting.

After urging all IOC members and their clubs to vote, Eric Thompson, chairman, opened the floor to the candidates.

Carolyn Kaiser, running for Associated Women Students president, said she decided to run because she thought there was a great mismanagement of time and lack of experience this semester.

"I've had lots of experience in student government and have been involved in lots of activities on and off campus, including women's activities," Ms. Kaiser said.

Stuart Goldstein, running for the office of Jewish ethnic studies, said, "I have to have focal point in the community. I have worked hard in the past, and look forward to a fulfilling year."

Dave Churchill, running for commissioner of campus improvements (and holds that position presently), said the blueprints are up on the campus recreation room, and companies are being asked for bids.

"Since I have had the Valley Star distribution boxes painted, distribution has gone up 10 percent," Churchill added. "I would also like to put in parking gates and orientate a program for the handicapped," he said.

Alex Hampton, running for A.S. vice-president, said he would like to increase student income, insure a base for the teacher evaluation program, and get other programs started, such as the computer commuter program.

"If I can do as good a job as Eric Thompson, I will do a good job,"

Hampton said, speaking of Eric Thompson, current A.S. vice-president.

Thompson said, "I have a good record here in IOC—I can promise if I'm elected president of A.S. I will accomplish what IOC did this semester. I urge you and your clubs to vote for me."

In other business, Dale Ma, chairman of the underprivileged children's Christmas party, which was held Dec. 15, thanked all clubs for their participation.

"It was fantastic the way everything came through," Ma said.

A motion was passed to have an IOC catered brunch as an end-of-the-semester celebration, in place of a regularly scheduled meeting.

SC Law Dean Pleads Case

A bachelor's degree from an accredited college, plus money, is a prerequisite for admission to law school, Jerry Wiley, associate dean of the University of Southern California's Law School, told an audience in BSc100 Tuesday. However, he explained that a degree in law leads to more things than any other degree.

Speaking at Valley College's weekly Occupational Exploration Series, Wiley said a general education is usually better for undergraduates considering the legal field as a career, but that four years of college and a law school admissions test must follow. He also described requirements for education following the state bar examination as a "perpetuity," never ending. He said this need stems from the lawyer's need to stay updated and added that a continuing education favors the development of specialization of a lawyer.

Wiley defined law itself as "what officials do about a dispute." He cited disagreements over ownership as one that involves much time in the courts.

Articulateness in writing and a "great capacity for work" were given high ratings of importance for law students, in Wiley's opinion. He called USC one of the best law schools locally but said UCLA also had high ratings. He listed UC Berkeley as a fine law school in Northern California.

AND MOTORCYCLE AUTO INSURANCE

College Student Insurance Service

has just spent 7 years working with the auto insurance industry to prove that college students deserve better rates. Now, armed with student discounts from two top-rated insurers, we find we can often save students as much as 35 per cent on their single car policies. Multi-car rates are also available.
